

Announcing The First

Are you ready to pit your skill against NYT Editor Will Shortz's challenging crossword puzzles? Join other Akron experts and meet new friends as you try your hand at unpublished crosswords provided by the "puzzlemaster" himself. The puzzles will begin easy and get progressively harder – but they are all solvable! Prizes will be awarded! All levels of crossword enthusiasts are encouraged to participate.

Here's how it works:

There will be three stages plus a final round. During each stage, contestants will have twenty minutes to solve the puzzle as best they can. When finished (or when time's up), the puzzles will be collected and our judges will score them. After the third round, the top three finalists will be announced (one from each round), and they will compete against each other with the fourth, and most difficult, puzzle.
