

This award was named after John Newbery, the famous 18th-century publisher and seller of children's books. It is presented annually by the Association for Library Services to Children of the American Library Association to the author of the most distinguished contribution to American Literature for children published during the preceding year. Frederick Melcher (1879-1963) donated the first medal in 1922 and annually thereafter. His son Daniel Melcher continues the tradition.
